What is an NUS Delegate?

As an affiliated member of the National Union of Students (NUS), an organisation with over seven million members, LSESU is entitled to send voting delegates to the National Conference in April.

At the conference you will have the chance to join in the debate on the key issues facing students across the United Kingdom, as well as to vote for the student representatives who will lead the NUS for the next year. This is also a great opportunity to meet fellow students passionate about making a difference in the Higher Education sector, providing delegates with a key networking opportunity.

What you will do in the role

- Attend NUS National Conference in Brighton in April 2017.
- Prepare for the conference by consulting with students on the issues they care about and potentially submit motions for debate.
- Vote for the various student representatives elected at conference and the motions submitted for debate.
- Feed back to students on what happened at the National Conference.

You should nominate yourself if...

- You are passionate about national student politics and want to influence decisions that affect Higher Education institutions throughout the UK.
- You want to represent the views of LSE students on a national scale.
- You wish to improve your communication and presentation skills by having the chance to speak in front of a large audience.
